

Reinohl Collection album list

The Reinohl Collection consists of 180 albums compiled by two brothers, Herbert and Albert Reinohl. The brothers were born in the 19th century and collected material about transport (buses in particular) from childhood through to the 1950s. It's mainly a ticket collection, but also includes illustrations, press cuttings, journal articles and other ephemera from the UK and around the world.

The list below gives brief details of what is covered by each album. The albums are fully catalogued, but this information is not yet available outside the Museum. If you would like further information about material in the collection please contact us.

The process of digitising the collection has begun with some of the London albums. We intend that these will be publicly accessible online in the future, but this won't be for some time.

In the meantime, please contact us if you would like to see either the material digitised so far, or the albums themselves at the Museum Depot in Acton. However, please note that during this period of Museum re-opening and until March 2008, visits to the Museum Depot may be restricted.
